Town supports school board

Elk Point Town Council voted Monday night to put their support behind the County of St. Paul School Board's appeal into a Department of Education decision to put a planned addition to Elk Point Elementary School on hold.

The Town's trustee on the School Board, Janice Van Maarion, met with Council Monday night to outline the situation, involving overcrowded classrooms and lack of needed facilities, and to ask for the Town's support in the issue. Ms. Van Maarion noted that space in the school, even when the present modernization project is completed next spring, will be so scarce that it may be necessary to consider bringing in relocatable classrooms if the Department does not reconsider their decision to put a hold on the addition.

A petition started by a parents' group is gaining momentum, Ms. Van Maarion said, with both Town and County ratepayers eager to sign the document asking for the addition to be reconsidered for immediate funding.

Anyone who wishes to sign the petition, which will leave Elk Point en route to the government on Friday, may contact Pat Vincent, who is heading the parents' group.

A letter from the Town, supporting the stand taken by the Board and the parents, will accompany the petition.

In other matters coming before Town Council, the two remaining readings were given to the Building Permit Conditions bylaw, which adds a refundable performance deposit into the building permit costs, to ensure that building sites are cleaned up to acceptable standards after construction is completed, something which has not always been done in the past.

Council also made plans to meet with officials of Amoco Canada to discuss the negative impact on the community which could occur if the company were to relocate a large number of their employees now living in Elk Point, due to the recent Amoco

John Dahmer laid to rest

By Brenda Romanchuk
Staff Writer

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil...", words from the Twenty-third Psalm.

The above passage seemed appropriate, as John Dahmer's son, Bill, spoke to the more than 500 people gathered to pay last respects to his father, at Elk Point on November 30th.

"My father was spiritual enough to put his faith in God during his illness," claimed Bill Dahmer. "He died at peace with himself, with no pain or suffering."

John Dahmer, resident of the Elk Point/St. Paul area, and MP Elect for the Beaver River Riding, passed away on November 26, of bone marrow cancer.

When told his diagnosis, John Dahmer, according to his son, stated, "I've never been a quitter, and I don't think I'll start now." However, Dahmer's battle was brief, as he passed away within weeks of his admission to hospital, five days after an overwhelming victory in the Federal election.

Because of his popularity in both towns, a prayer service was held in St. Paul on the evening of November 29th, with the funeral service being conducted in Elk Point. Rev. Samuel Donaldson and Mr. F. R. Upham officiated. John Dahmer was laid to rest in the Elk Point West Cemetery. Pallbearers were: Cliff Mashford, John Briggs, Al Gourley, Jim Peacock, Reg Lukasik and Don Luft.

One of the pallbearers, Al Gourley, a longtime family friend, stated in the eulogy that Dahmer had two main priorities in life; involvement in the community, and that people mattered the most. He described Dahmer as a "builder...he built homes, he built communities, he built people." Gourley said, "John was a true Albertan son, and perhaps made Alberta a better place to live."

"A superstar, superstar", was how Gary Polanski remembered John Dahmer. Polanski was a former colleague from Lakeland College, where Dahmer was Director of the St. Paul, Elk Point and Two Hills area.

Included in the honorary pallbearers, was Deputy Prime Minister Don Mazankowski. "We are gathered here today to mourn the loss of John Dahmer, and yet celebrate his life," stated Mazankowski in his address to the crowd.

"John's ultimate goal in life was to be elected to Commons by his fellow citizens," continued Mazankowski. Dahmer's loss was a tragedy, said Mazankowski, as he was destined to be a parliamentarian.

Dome merger.

Attempts by the Town to light up residents' lives with new street lights may not be successful until spring, Council was told. However, the administration was asked to urge Alberta Power to install at least three of the lights, where existing poles are located, in the interests of public safety. The lights were ordered some months ago, and Council had anticipated their installation this fall.

Library Board member-at-large Stan Dmytrash was re-appointed for a second 3-year term on the board.

Considerable discussion on the 18-month-old issue of a laneway overlapping property belonging to Ed Buck was also part of Council's deliberations for the evening. A new solution to the problem was offered by Mayor Bruce Kleeberger, and will be offered to Buck for his consideration.

SURROUNDED SANTA—was greeted by a very enthusiastic group of Elk Point youngsters when he dropped in at the Lioness Santas Anonymous Pancake Breakfast last Saturday. A brimming box of gifts and numerous cash donations were received to help less fortunate families to have a happy holiday.

One week to By-election

Elk Point voters will go to the polls one week from today, to fill a Town Council vacancy which has existed since the early days of 1987, when Sandra Giffin stepped down after less than three months on Council.

Three contenders are after the Council seat: school teacher Lawrence Pidluzny, homemaker Adele Mandryk and businessman Ed Buck.

The Review asked all three for their views on the most pressing problems and projects facing Town Council during the ten months remaining before the next general election.

LAWRENCE PIDLUZNY: 'I feel that the Town should take whatever measures necessary to hold taxes and water and sewer rates at their present levels for a number of years, however they must not lose sight of the need for future development. They need to get caught up with their larger debentures, or get to a point where the taxes would pay the existing debts.

'I do want to see us plan for a new community services centre and increase capacity of the water treatment plant, but I want to see it done as funds permit.

'I also want better communication between the Town and the community—maybe even an open line show on the community television channel—I want to respond to the community's needs.

'We should all slow down and live—enjoy what we have, but plan for the future.'

ADELE MANDRYK: 'I'm looking for progressive, orderly but also financially sound growth. We must look at the economic base, and let the business community know that the Town supports their efforts. The efforts of the Tourism Action Planning Committee must also be supported. Our economic base has to expand to include tourism related businesses, and more businesses of other kinds. These are important areas to focus on when the oil industry is not as stable as it could be.

'I would support attempts to build a multi-use facility for the community, but realize this must wait until we can afford to go ahead with it.'

ED BUCK: 'The most critical situation is that the general operating expenses have increased, with only taxation and the selling of services to pay for them. General operating expenses have to be cut, basically the frills, because $100,000 in expenses means 3 mills on taxes.

'Planning for the complex to be built in the future can be done now, so when the economic situation improves we can build it in stages.

'I feel I have the ability and the contacts to negotiate with the Provincial government, as my past record shows—Elk Point got $6 million in direct grants during my term as mayor.'

It is now up to the voters to decide on the best person for the position of Town Councillor. Please get out and vote on Wednesday, December 14.

Dahmer laid to rest

John Dahmer was honored in many ways last Wednesday, mostly as a man committed to his community and the people in it. Bill Dahmer, however, told mourners, that the thing he would remember most about his father, was his determination and perseverance.

"He was a leader and a worker," said Bill, and "He never gave up." Aside from Bill, Dahmer is survived by two other children, Jacqueline and Jolayne, and his wife, Donna.

"As in life, as in death", were words used by Gourley in the eulogy. This philosophy proved true last week, as the community turned out and supported John Dahmer in death, as they had a week earlier, in life.

CEREMONIAL ROCK—is thrown by Elk Point Mayor Bruce Kleeberger at the Pioneer Circle Invitational Floor Curling Tournament last Thursday.

TOWN COUNCIL CANDIDATE—Ed Buck offered best wishes for the Pioneer Circle floor curlers and their friends, in the form of a handsomely decorated cake donated by himself and his wife Marie.

Ukrainian dance club

By Margaret Bayduza

On Saturday, December 10, the Elk Point and District Ukrainian Dance Club will be holding our annual Tea and Bake Sale. It lasts from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. We will be selling pyrogies at this time. Also, this will be the last chance to buy tickets for our raffle of $100, $200 and $300, as the draw will be made that afternoon. The sale is being held at the Pioneer Circle.

We were invited to dance at the Heinsburg School for Heritage Day on November 18. The senior group put on a show of several dances. It was a fun way to get used to quick costume changes again. We also got to stay and watch the Elizabeth Colony dancers, who performed after we did.

January 14, 1989 is our 10th Anniversary Pyrogy Supper and Dance. The supper will be from 5:00 to 8:00 p.m. Admission is $6 for adults, 12 and under, $3. The dance will follow, starting at 9:00 p.m. The admission for that will be adults—$5, 12 to 6 year olds—$2, under 6—free. The supper and dance will be at the Elks Hall. Tickets are available only at the door.

Pioneer Circle hosts floor curling meeting

Floor curling enthusiasts from senior citizens' groups throughout the area gathered in Elk Point on Thursday, December 1 for an Invitational Floor Curling Tournament, with visiting teams coming from Eastbourne, St. Paul, Bonnyville, Clondonald, Vermilion, Fort Kent, LaCorey and Mannville to compete with eight local teams.

The visitors were welcomed by Mayor Bruce Kleeberger, who told the gathering that the Pioneer Circle's efforts at providing entertainment and activities for the seniors were much appreciated by the Town. Kleeberger good naturedly threw a ceremonial rock to officially open the tournament.

Pioneer Circle President Mike Palinka, in turn, welcomed the Mayor, noting 'We are fortunate to have a mayor like that,' who cares about the senior members of the community. Palinka also thanked Morris Cooper, organizer of the day's activities, for his efforts. Cooper introduced the two ladies responsible for bringing floor curling to the Pioneer Circle several years ago, Margaret Clark and Mary Prusak. Floor curling is a much enjoyed and steadily growing interest among the seniors of Elk Point and other communities.

Town Council hopeful Ed Buck told the seniors he would like to see Elk Point have a new and larger senior citizens' centre, and joked that the Pioneer Circle had 'lowered their age limit to let me in' to the membership so he could be part of the planning committee for a new facility.

Various prizes were awarded, during the day, for the team totalling the largest number of years of age, to teams coming the farthest to participate, and to the team amassing the most total points. Mike and Lil Palinka, Morris Cooper and the Hilltop Cafe donated prizes for the event. Elk Point pins for all the visitors were donated by the Town, while the Chamber of Commerce and the Floor Curling Ladies donated the fine lunch which all enjoyed throughout the day.

Drive safely

This is Safe Driving Week.

Every year at this time, the Provincial Government and the RCMP combine efforts to make Alberta's motorists more aware of their driving habits, at a time of year when this is most essential.

What makes this season the most accident prone? Two factors play a large part: the onset of winter weather and the onset of the festive season.

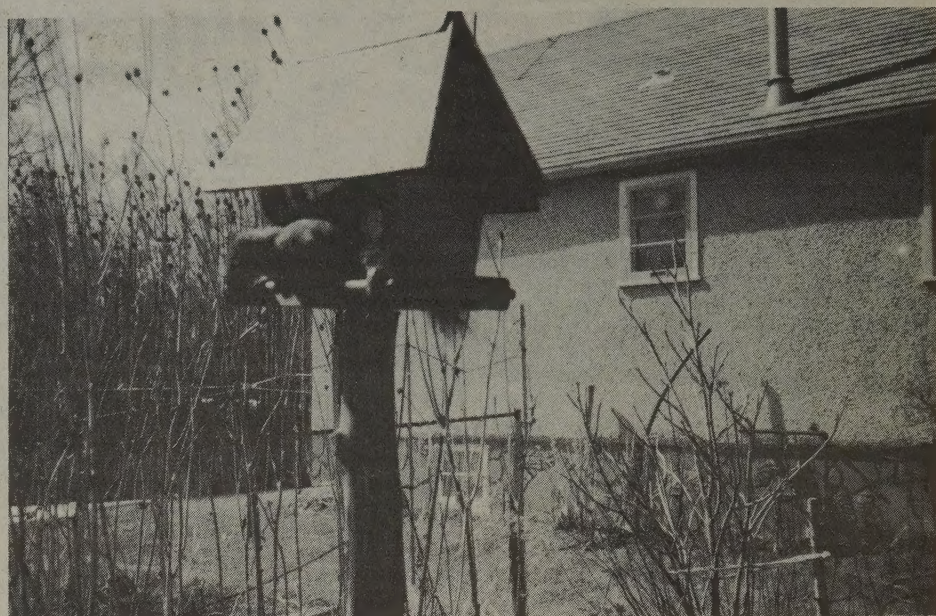

Winter weather is changeable, at best, and produces snow, blowing snow, freezing rain, fog, and zero visibility at the drop of a hat. We motorists, used to care-free summer roads, forget to prepare for this with snow tires, ice scrapers, gasoline antifreeze, and slower speeds, and end up in a ditch, with our front bumper in someone's trunk—or worse. People slide through intersections, hit patches of ice and swerve into lanes of oncoming traffic, and run into slowed down or stalled vehicles in snowstorms or fog banks.

Secondly, with Christmas fast approaching, the number of social occasions is escalating rapidly, and with it, the number of impaired drivers on the roads, returning from those events. They may not be drunk, but just happy enough to be a little less cautious than usual.

If there is ever a time when defensive driving is important, it is now. We must watch out not only for our own actions but for potentially dangerous habits of others, who may not be as careful.

This week, and every week, tailor your speed to road conditions, don't drive when you are under the influence, and buckle up. We don't want to tell your sad story on our front page this Christmas...or ever.

Wars - relived in words

By Irene Magnusson

December 7th, anniversary of the infamous attack on Pearl Harbor, Island of Oahu, Territory of Hawaii, back in 1941, in the midst of World War II, 47 years ago today. I'm sure the event will be relived, hashed over and commented upon by many. The event marked the entry, even in the midst of negotiations, of Japan into the already raging war taking place in Europe, between the United Nations and the Axis.

On the following day, December 8, the United States declared war on Japan, and on Germany and Italy on December 11.

The Pearl Harbor attack, carried out by about 100 carrier-based aircraft and a number of submarines, sent to the bottom or seriously damaged, eight American battleships, ten other naval vessels, and destroyed around 200 American aircraft stationed nearby. About 3000 American military and naval personnel were killed or wounded.

The naval base of Pearl Harbor is an important defense station of the United States. It was first acquired for use as a repair and recoaling base for American ships in 1884. Some work was done to deepen and widen the entrance to the port in 1887 and 1889, but not until after the Hawaiian Islands were annexed to the United States in 1898 did serious improvements begin. Dredging was completed in 1911, with a channel 35 feet deep and the bay itself is 50 to 60 feet deep, making it an ideal harbor, for even the largest ships.

Pearl Harbor is only six miles from Honolulu, as many of you who have basked in the delights of a holiday of the glamour isles of Hawaii are probably aware. The Hawaiian Islands, composed of eight major islands plus many smaller isles, became the 50th state of the U. S. in 1959, adopting the Constitution of the United States, and moving smoothly into the modern world. First discovered by Europeans, led by Captain James Cook, in 1778, the islands had been inhabited by Polynesians for centuries.

Wonderful stories of life among the swaying palm trees, the white sands and warm blue waters, have led many to travel to the glamorous South Sea Islands, and I'm sure it is lovely. I can also believe it is a commercialized jungle, and no one should go there without a pocket very full of cash and credit cards.

We in Canada are fortunate not to have been involved in any wars (that I know of) since 1945, when we hung up the sword after almost six years of bloody war in various parts of the world—oh, I forgot, we did get our fingers in the pies of slaughter in Korea and Vietnam. I'm not sure if that was official, but it was actual. We have also been unwillingly involved in matters in the Middle East, as sort of 'peace keepers' rather than 'peace makers.'

I guess it's great to remember the wars, and how many were killed or injured, and the terrible costs in life, limb and pocketbooks. What I really wish is that there would be no more wars. Such a waste! Such a terrible, terrible waste!

I don't think we have to admit to cowardice or 'being chicken' if we don't love war. It is sort of like strikes—in the end, they are only settled by talking and giving something for what you get—and wars are eventually settled by talking and giving something for what you get. All the anger and strife, the hurting and deaths and destruction are not what counts in the end—it is the exchange of WORDS that eventually lays the groundwork for peace, or getting on with the job.

So how do you like that for a layman's (or should that be laywoman's?) (Oh, I hate that!) sermon on how to run the world? Just give me a chance, and I'll come up with a cure for anything.

Today, I'm going out to ski again. There hasn't really been that much to call snow, but every day or two we get a coating of frost on the trees, and later the breeze blows it off, so it lands in my tracks and there becomes like a light dusting of new snow.

In the new snow, there are tracks. I see some small pairs dotting across the walk, here under my window. I have concluded they were made by a very small weasel—or a very large mouse. I lean more to the weasel theory. Yesterday, along the edge of the field, were many tracks; coyotes have criss-crossed, but they like to follow my ski trails when they come to them. Deer, too, follow my ski tracks, and I am amazed to note there are still a few left to make tracks after the slaughter of the past few weeks' open season. I shall be extremely glad to notice it is over—IF indeed it IS over—so I can ski on my own fields without having to deck myself in red, and still wonder if I'll get shot before I get home again. The numerous truck tracks in my fields indicate to me the hunters have roamed freely there, especially the ones who like to hunt from their trucks—and who do not feel they have any cause to come and ask, before trespassing on other people's land.

Near the house, where I put out seeds and scraps for them, are tracks of squirrels, mice, tiny birds and larger birds. One lone partridge has passed across my walk, out into the garden and under the spruce. I hope it returns—they are so very few in number—and would you believe? There has been an open season on partridges and chickens this year!! This is so hard to understand, as to baffle me. And I'm sure there are those who will take advantage of it, and go out and kill off any they find—with what thought for the future I do not know!

It is so truly wonderful and inspiring to see the wild creatures around the woods, in our trees and yards. In one day I saw about a dozen cedar waxwings on the maples, later a twittering, bouncy six or eight evening grosbeaks wandered through, gathering a few lilac seeds, a few pinecones. Three big bossy bluejays came in to pilfer sunflower seeds I'd put in the feeder for the chickadees, who had already spent some time hopping madly between feeder and the bowl of scraps on the little table. Later a downy woodpecker landed on the post that holds the feeder up, rat-tat-tatting away, looking for grubs or whatever in the cracks, before climbing up to stick his head over the rim and get his ration of sunflower seeds, too.

Rabbits have beaten paths in the snow among the spruce along the slough, and voles have come out to criss-cross their little tunnels above the thick grass where they will live over winter. Tiny paired mouse-tracks scamper over the thin white layer, and seeds from the lamb's quarter are scattered like pepper over the snow. Along the field edge are wild rose bushes, loaded this fall with bright red berries, preserved by nature until required by her wildlife.

Evidence of so many little creatures, never seen in summer, shows plain on the white of winter, certainly making me feel less alone. I should be very sad to see them no more.

Retired teachers

Dear Editor,

Camrose RoseCity Retirees are publishing a book detailing the experiences of Alberta Retired Teachers. We are gathering and publishing a province-wide collection of stories, poems and anecdotes focusing on actual happenings in and around teacher situations. This book will be a first of its kind and will definitely be a milestone in the history of Alberta education.

RoseCity Retirees is comprised of 10 volunteer seniors—5 of which are retired teachers. RoseCity Retirees is the non-profit core group for this project which, hopefully, will involve all Alberta retired teachers.

Our project met the criteria for Federal Government funding administered by Health and Welfare: New Horizons.

This project will encourage the development of creative leisure time activities, self determination and democratic decision making. It will be a project of sharing. Now is the time to share these memories before even you forget them!

I am hereby requesting retired teachers to submit, at the earliest date possible, an article reminiscent of an experience during their teaching career: maximum of approximately 250 words, preferably typed. Hand your article to your local Alberta Retired Teacher Association representative or mail direct to:

It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas at the Library. Come in and see our bulletin board which shows why we celebrate Christmas. Entry forms are available for the Prism Award at the Library. This is for young Canadian students who would like to try writing.

NEW BOOKS

ADULT NON-FICTION:

Uneasy Patriots is a book by our 'rebel' Alberta Progressive Conservative MP, David Kilgour. In this book is a call for full and equal partnership for the West in all public and private Canadian institutions.

What's Next? by Paul Erdman—Once again our leading economic forecaster makes an in-depth analysis of our future well-being. The predicted crash of 1989 and the recovery in the 1990's.

After the summer Olympics you might be interested in our beautiful new collection of books about Korea.

ADULT FICTION

Willow by Wayland Drew—Willow was just a humble Nelwyn farmer who dreamed of becoming a magician. A dream that was about to come true, for according to legend, the birth of a child with the sign on its arm would herald the Queen's downfall. Willow had a special role to play in fulfilling the child's destiny, a role that would call upon the true power within him.

Mist Over Morro Bay by Carole Page—A gripping novel of mystery, romance, and adventure on the California coast.

Heaven and Hell by John Jakes—The conclusion of the North and South trilogy. A portrait of individuals in crisis in the aftermath of war. It is by turns, hardbitten, violent, bawdy, gentle, comic and lyrical. Its pace is swift, its story irresistible.

Fifty by Avery Corman—The author tells a story of Doug Gardner, witty, sensitive, worldly-wise, a man whose life is falling apart. His life is a series of changes since he is facing fifty.

Five leaders were honored for 10 years of leadership: Yvonne Brown, Tofield Laughs and Crafts; Donna Carter, Bruderheim Light Horse; Bill McGrath, Preston Beef; Don Misick, Preston Beef; and George Roddick, Viking Beef.

Elaine Lyster of Vilna Sew'n'Go received a standing ovation along with her pin and plaque for twenty years of devoted leadership.

Keynote speaker at the luncheon banquet was Kathryn Hildebrand of Vermilion, a former member of the Vermilion Beef Club, who went on from provincial level 4-H public speaking to be a Tostmasters Club charter member. Ms. Hildebrand spoke on the journey of life, which can be 'either a daring adventure or nothing at all' and for which we must pack a positive mental attitude. She said that each of us is given the gift of an original, unique life, and we have the responsibility to develop it and respect it.

She spoke of the risks we must take, risks of 'making friends, losing our shyness, getting compliments, learning something new.' We have a duty to become ourselves, and not allow others to mold our lives. Ms. Hildebrand said, urging the 4-Hers to 'Put your lives into good hands—your own!'

1988 Premier's Award winner Liza Properzi also addressed the group, speaking on 'Courage,' and how courage is involved in the lives of 4-H members.

NOTICE

HEAVY EQUIPMENT INDUSTRY

TRADE OF HEAVY EQUIPMENT OPERATOR
(Crane and Hoisting Division)

SUBJECT: COMPULSORY CERTIFICATION FOR ALL
OPERATORS OF CRANE AND HOISTING EQUIPMENT

The regulation for the Crane and Hoisting Equipment Operator trade has been approved by the Minister and an order in Council and will come into effect January 1, 1989.

This newly designated trade was formerly the Heavy Equipment Operator trade and has been changed from voluntary to compulsory certification.

The trade was divided into 3 craft areas:

1. Mobile Crane Operator — cranes with a lifting capacity of 15 tons (13.6 tonnes) or greater
2. Tower Crane Operator
3. Boom Truck Operator — boom trucks with a lifting capacity in excess of 5 tons (4.5 tonnes)

Effective January 1, 1989 anyone operating crane and hoisting equipment will be required to have an Alberta Journeyman Heavy Equipment Operator certificate or be indentured as an apprentice in one of the craft areas of the Crane and Hoisting Equipment Operator trade.

After January 1, 1989 holders of Alberta Journeyman Heavy Equipment Operator certificates will have one year to apply for the new certificate for the Crane and Hoisting Equipment Operator trade.

Any concerns or questions relating to the attached regulation for the Crane and Hoisting Equipment Operator trade should be directed to Larry Zeisman, Program Development Officer, Program Development and Standards, Apprenticeship and Trade Certification (427-4601) in Edmonton.

Safe, sound and sensible

By Lyle Hamm

As I got out of my truck, a male white-tailed deer by the name of "Lucky" quickly approached the nearby fence which housed him and several other companions. It is rutting season and the curious and less than normally apprehensive deer was checking out the intruder.

Such is the scene at Marvin Ference's wild game farm 13 miles southeast of St. Paul. In addition to raising the white-tails, Ference is also occupied with a small herd of Elk and a 500 pound Moose calf by the name of "Sonny".

The game farm industry has been steadily growing throughout western Canada and primarily in Alberta over the last three years and at the same time has seen much criticism from people that continually misinterpret the goals of the farmers.

Ference started his farm November 14th of 1987. Since that time, he has been rewarded the opportunity to watch his herd grow in numbers and in character.

"Each one of them gradually builds their personality to the point where it becomes very noticeable," Ference said.

"They are generally unaggressive creatures but during mating season, you have to be particularly cautious around the males," he added.

Ference got into the industry out of his growing interest for the animals, not hiding the fact that he is a hunter.

"I've learned to respect the animals more from my daily interaction with them. I didn't get my buck this year and it didn't bother me. I guess I've lost my desire to hunt," Ference said.

Ference, who belongs to the Alberta Game Growers Association, pointed out that the elk industry, through proper management and maintenance controls over the domestic herds, could eventually erase the slaughter of these animals in the wild.

"Poaching is a reality, but so is game farming," he said.

"Every year, thousands of these creatures are senselessly murdered by poachers who strip them of their antlers and leave the carcass to rot in the wild."

Ference went on to add, "It is no secret that many far eastern countries pay top dollar to these poachers strictly for the antler velvet which they use for medical purposes."

"Through proper management practices, game farmers would be able to successfully build up their herds and in the process, take the antlers off the creatures for sale to the eastern market. The animal, which would shed their antlers regardless, lives to grow another rack the following year," he said.

Ference concluded by saying, "This industry, as the Association continually points out to critics, can be profitable but at the same time preserves these animals."

"We have to open up a safe and manageable market to the far eastern societies that come calling for the product rather than have them get the product from illegal hunters," Ference said.

Asked about the long range possibilities of the industry, Ference said, "Presently, it is illegal to sell the animals for consumption and it really isn't a good idea."

"There are only approximately 4000 domestic elk scattered across the hundred or so game farms around Alberta. What game farmers have to do is build up their herds to a number that would make it safe, manageable and sensible for them to sell the product for consumption," he said.

Using New Zealand as an example, he pointed out that it took that country 20 years to build their game farm herds to a number that would be safe and compatible to market the product at retail grocery stores.

Ference also added that New Zealand started with a half a million animals 20 years ago, stressing the distance local game farmers have to go before they can even think about this aspect of the industry.

"Venison is noted for its excellent taste and positive dietary features. It is low in fat and cholesterol and high in protein which would ultimately bring a demand to people wanting to lower their risk of heart disease that is brought on by fatty diets," Ference said.

This, Ference agrees, is all futuristic speculation and may possibly never happen if the herd numbers stay the same or decline.

For the present, Ference, along with other game farmers, would like a better relationship with Associations such as the Fish and Wildlife and make them realize that their industry is positive in its conservation of these wildlife species.

"We have facts and statistics to bolster our position with our critics which are readily available to anyone that wishes to view the study," he said.

Much to game farmer's displeasure, many critics perceive the industry as paid-hunting on one's land. To this Ference replies, "Realistically, how many people would actually take money from someone, allow them to enter their property and blast a defenseless animal that really stands no chance. If there is a man as such, he needs help," Ference said.

"We in the Association of Game Growers firmly believe this to be one of the more positive industries to surface in recent years," said Ference.

Not only is it a challenge, it is economical compared to the cattle industry.

"What will feed only one beef cow will feed five elk," Ference added.

"In addition, you can raise elk on marginal land and still get off a good turn-over per acre," he concluded.

But, the one benefit that Ference enjoys the most from his game farm is seeing the thrills that it brings others when they tour his farm.

"I've had several classes from Elk Point come out and view the facility, but the most memorable time was when the hospital brought some of their patients out and they had the deer eating grain right out of their palms."

"It was quite a thrill to see the expressions on their faces," Ference said.

The farm keeps Ference busy throughout a good part of each day, yet he encourages the public to come out for a visit.

If there are questions regarding the farm in any way, Ference would like to hear them.

"Our Association has been quiet for a long time and now that we have compiled a great deal of research bolstering the image and credibility of the industry, we feel it's time to promote it," he concluded.

Card of Thanks

I would like to recognize the outstanding efforts made on my behalf by the Medical Personnel at the Elk Point, Royal Alex and University of Alberta Hospitals during my recent illness. I wish to thank the many individuals, families, organizations, associations, members of the local and provincial governments and staffs, everyone who so thoughtfully encouraged me with your cards, letters, phone messages, flowers, artistic balloon arrangements, everything, and with your hospital visits, and with your prayers. Awareness of your kind thoughts greatly supported me through this most traumatic time of my life and I want to assure everyone of my sincere appreciation.

Your many phone calls to Muriel and personal messages of support comforted her and reduced the stress that always falls on the family, and she shares in this expression of gratitude to everyone.

Sincerely, Sid and Muriel Holthe

YOU MEAN I'M GOING TO GROW MORE YET? — Yeh, about 1500 pounds more Sonny. You can easily depict why these creatures are labelled the king of the forests.

MANY FORMS OF ART—from surrealistic shapes to Remembrance Day posters were displayed by F. G. Miller art teacher Kaz Lazicki when he met with parents of his students at last week's open house.

FGM hosts open house

Parents studied mathematics problem solving, heard overviews of curriculum on subjects ranging from art to typing, and tested their knowledge of local history at last Monday's open house at F. G. Miller Junior-Senior High school.

Armed with their child's Monday timetable, parents sped off to find elusive classrooms at the sound of the school bells. In drastically shortened 15-minute periods, the 'new students' found out what their child was learning in each class, with some teachers discussing the year's projects, and some pointing out the need for good study habits, or explaining recent changes in the curriculum.

A good number of parents attended the open house, and most of those who did were enthusiastic about the chance to see the school through their children's viewpoint. In fact, some parents enjoyed the evening so much that they suggested it be expanded to a whole day next year, maybe even complete with riding the school buses.

The open house is one of the ways Principal Jim Hawkins hopes to put the community in better touch with the happenings at the school. Another way is through the possibility of forming a Parent-Teacher Association, with an information and organizational meeting scheduled for tonight at 7:00 p.m. All parents of F. G. Miller students are urged to attend this meeting, and have a part in deciding the future of your children's education.

NORTH EASTERN ALBERTA HEALTH UNIT

Burning garbage hazardous

Ask a Public Health Inspector:

Why should you not burn garbage in a landfill site?

1. Burning garbage causes poisonous air pollution.
2. People don't want a dump near their home (burning garbage smells) so the dumps are difficult to locate.
3. The fire is a safety hazard to people and land.
4. Burning garbage is illegal under the Clean Air Act and the Public Health Act.

Ask a Hereditary Diseases Nurse:

I had a baby daughter one week ago. Why did they take blood from her heel?

This is done on every newborn to screen for PKU. PKU is a disease which affects the baby's use of food. A child who has the disease will be mentally retarded by one year old. If discovered early, she can be put on a special diet and grow up to be of normal intelligence. The test prevents mental retardation in many children.

Ask a Speech-Language Pathologist:

How can I tell if my baby has an ear infection? Ear infections can often appear after a cold or chest infection. Pain or fever are the usual symptoms. Irritability (excessive crying, fussing, or poor feeding) may be the only sign in infants. Repeated ear infections can cause temporary or permanent hearing loss. If you think your baby may have an ear infection, have her checked by a doctor.

Ask a Nutritionist:

My father recently had a heart attack. What can I do to reduce my chances of having one?

- 1) Eat a variety of food from the four food groups of Canada's Food Guide each day.
- 2) Limit the amount of fat, sugar, alcohol and salt you eat.
- 3) Eat more fruits, whole grains and vegetables.
- 4) Include an unsaturated fat (a margarine or vegetable oil from safflower, corn, sunflower, soybean, olive or peanut oil) each day.

By Robin Jones
Club Reporter

It is that time of year again! Our club has started another year of fun and enjoyment.

Our first meeting was held on October 19, 1988. At that time we discussed the new year and elected our new officers. Sarah Chamberlin will be our new President for the year, assisting her will be Elisa Gibbard as Vice President, Treasurer is Dorome Chamberlin, filling the post of Secretary will be Cleo Peterson and finally myself, Robin Jones, as Club Reporter. Our leader once again will be Al Noble.

On November 3, we once again started our monthly meetings. November 19 was set as Weigh Day at Doug Cooke's, this will run from 1:00 to 2:00 p.m. As well, our traditional Christmas tree cutting has been decided. This will run on Sunday, December 4, 1988, starting at 1:00 p.m. This is something all our members look forward to.

Our club is looking forward to a new year with new experiences. We would like to welcome our new members as well as our old ones. We hope you enjoy the new year and learn more about your project.

Elks extinguish Flames 8-4

Elk Point Elks came back from Thursday night's 14-3 thumping at the hands of the Cold Lake Packers to dampen the Goodfish Flames 8-4 in Sunday afternoon action in Elk Point.

A moderate crowd watched the Elks take a 3-0 lead in the first period, with goals by Willie Lesyk, Keith Campbell and Troy Lorenson assisted by Delwin Slemple, Terry Wozniak (2), Willie Lesyk, Kerry Loughran and Alain Leclerc.

Two players found their game cut short, when an impromptu wrestling match at just past the 14 minute mark of the period sent the Elks' Murray Scoggins and the Flames' Stan Jackson to the showers for the rest of the afternoon.

Troy Lorenson upped the lead to 4 points in the first minute of the second period, with an unassisted goal.

Goodfish made their way onto the scoreboard midway through the period, with Bobby Houle scoring off assists by Gary Halfe and Earl Youngchief just as the Elks regained full strength during a rash of penalties. The Elks were soon shorthanded again, and took over five minutes to answer with their fifth goal, another unassisted goal by Lorenson, who turned it into a hat trick with yet another goal before the end of the period, this time assisted by Kerry and Allan Loughran.

Penalties continued to plague both teams throughout the third period, with the Flames' Bobby Houle leaving the game early with the third Game Misconduct of the day.

Prior to his departure, however, the Flames threw a scare into the Elks with a series of three goals in less than three minutes. Stewart Delver, Earl Youngchief and Gary Halfe scored for the Flames, assisted by Earl Youngchief, Brian Halfe, Ferlin McGilvery and Howard Bear. The Elks' seventh goal came hot on the heels of this onslaught, with a power play by Terry Wozniak, assisted by Murray Cochrane and Troy Lorenson.

A fifth goal went into the Elks net, a 'fly ball' batted in by a Goodfish stick, but this was ruled ineligible because of a high sticking rule infringement.

Elks newcomer Alain Leclerc scored the final goal of the game with 2:36 remaining, off assists by Murray Cochrane and Terry Wozniak, to give the Elks their final 4-point margin.

Scouting news

By Charlene Nixon

Our group has had a busy fall. Our district representatives went to Jasper for the Northern Alberta Regional Conference, and we have taken part in Leader and Group Committee training sessions.

The Wolf Cubs have had a winter weiner roast at Whitney Lake, had a swimming session, and are well on their way to earning their Blue and Red Stars.

The Beavers have had their 'Tail

Ceremony' which signifies their growth to new levels of maturity and ability. They are into Christmas Crafts right now, and look forward to the new year and new experiences.

Our Scouts have hosted a District Camp at Scout Hill, have gone swimming and are in constant training for their next camp out.

Our chocolate sales were successful again this year, thanks to the support of the community. We still have a few boxes left for anyone interested. Friends of Scouting have also operated a taxi service for the RCMP Ball. We will also be operating a taxi for the upcoming Oilmen's party.

Due to another dry year, our Christmas trees were ordered from BC this year. We ordered 30 Douglas Fir and 5 Scotch Pine. We offer a money back guarantee and free in town delivery. Our delivery date is December 10, orders are coming in fast, reserve yours today by calling 724-3037.

Christmas cantata

The United Church Choir offers their Christmas Cantata: Everlasting Light, A Christmas Carol For a Dark World, by Claire Cloninger and Mark Hays. Debbie Lou Huskins will direct and accompany the Choir of nearly twenty voices. Joe Brunner narrates. The Cantata is at 7:30 p.m., December 18, in the United Church. All welcome. Come out for an enjoyable evening of song.

Starscope

By Eileen Norby

The December charts show that the month will probably start much better than it ends - not much of a Christmas present to say the least. Not the best way to start a new year either. There is a tug-of-war between folks, holidays and work. Getting the whole family together could be doubtful. Refrain from criticizing, even good intentions can really miss the mark. Strengthening love and friendships is important now.

Aries (Mar 21 - Apr 19)

New moon position accents "getting together" with one who had been away. Smoothing ruffled feathers ought to be fairly easy. Discard things that you aren't using. It's a bit early to talk over holiday plans, confusion prevails. Hang ten.

Taurus (Apr 20 - May 20)

You need all the support you can get. A quiet approach brings positive results. Gathering of loved ones promises a happy day. You are into a period of great concern. Don't spread yourself thin. Your mate is balking at your ideas. Don't budge an inch to please.

Gemini (May 21 - Jun 20)

Don't say the first thing that comes into your head. Be still and listen. Be quiet and wait. You'll be on safer ground when your facts are straight. Attend to chores you have been putting off. Your zest for work is high. Two heads are better than one. Guests arriving.

Cancer (Jun 22 - Jul 23)

Travel will be a hassle for you right now. Watch for someone trying to pass the buck. Keep your eyes open, flow with the tide. Your holiday calendar is filling up. Start your shopping, while you can still relax. The week will be dullish but the pace will change.

Leo (Jul 24 - Aug 23)

You're suffering from an illness that threatens the holidays. Rest and a little TLC should put things right. Forget all your worries, you'll be out of the woods by New Years. Your attitude will change. The wheels are in motion, you'll soon be in tip-top shape.

Virgo (Aug 23 - Sept 22)

Nasty temper is showing. A child will teach you compassion, you can conquer worlds on your own. The year ahead promises changes and happy fulfillment. You've proven you can win over insurmountable odds. Good for you. Trust to your own instincts, wise and clever you.

Libra (Sept 23 - Oct 22)

You have certainly been caught up in the commercial side of the holidays but a moving spiritual experience is going to change your life forever. Really reflect on what happens. Share with your family and friends all the joy and love you have stored up. Your planet indicates a period of great returns in your business world. Go for it.

Scorpio (Oct 23 - Nov 21)

Sensational family news arrives in the mail. Spread the word to anyone who will listen. Oh boy, when something this big happens you tell the world. Let sleeping dogs lie concerning a secret matter, otherwise you'll just strain an alliance.

Sagittarius (Nov 23 - Dec 21)

The new moon is an ego-booster, strengthens your belief in yourself and coincides with fresh ideas for prompting your art and expanding your horizons. 'Tis the season and time to get busy with holiday correspondence. You'll meet old dear friends. Go to that dance.

Capricorn (Dec 22 - Jan 19)

Boy are you on a roll. Get on your hobbies which are an all-time high this week. Problems disappear with the snap of a finger. Your silver tongue and pleasant smile soften even the hardest of hearts. A dream holds the key to romantic adventure. Look before you leap.

Aquarius (Jan 20 - Feb 18)

Spend more time resting. Watch a little T.V. Don't worry over finance. It'll sort itself out. With the opposite sex you're the biggest bonzo. You've been far too uppity with your loved ones of late. Come off that high horse before you are crying. It's a bad time.

Pisces (Feb 19 - Mar 20)

Lucky you! Hang on to that piece of junk you were going to dump. It could be worth a bundle. Don't expect too much from your family now with Christmas around the corner. If you start off on the wrong foot in the morning it will get better by afternoon, trust it.

Have you met Adele Mandryk?

By Adele Mandryk

I have been going door-to-door, this past week meeting as many people as possible. Have you been one of them? If not, I hope to see you very soon. I am also distributing brochures, so that you can read about me at your leisure.

This campaign has been exciting for me and my family. It proves how interested the people of Elk Point are in the future of their town. I am pleased to have met so many dynamic people and to have heard your concerns. The By-Election is getting closer and I am impressed by the support I am receiving.

I am more than pleased to be able to offer you sound management and accounting skills. I am sure you are aware of just how important these skills will be in planning for a progressive, financially sound future for the Town of Elk Point.

Please remember to get out and vote on December 14. Your vote is your future! Thank you for supporting Adele Mandryk for Councillor.

Club hosts skate-a-thon

Elk Point Skating Club hosted their annual Skate-A-Thon Sunday, with a moderate turnout for the fundraising event.

In the 7 and Under category, Tracy Kubista and Adam Kleeberger won the Most Laps category, with Adam also recognized as being the youngest skater. Shalene Slywka raised the most money in this category. Other skaters, all receiving mini-trophies for participating, were Bronwyn Bi-lak, Vicki and Jessie Kleeberger, Jenna Basset, Cherie Hudy and Melanie Johnson.

In the 8 to 10 Year Old group, Dennell Andreson and Aaron Young skated the most laps, with Dennell also collecting the most pledges. Other skaters in this group, receiving participation awards, were Sharon Boratynec, Carrie Baumgardner, Karen Kubista, Carrie Piotrowski and Christina Kubista.

Elisabeth Ludlage and Richard Piotrowski skated the most laps in the 11 to 14 Year Old section, with Elisabeth collecting the most pledges for the group. Participation awards went to Callie Baumgardner, Wendy Boratynec, Charlene Anderson, Crystal McPherson and Shauna Loughran.

Doug Basset did double duty in the Clubs and Organizations category, skating for both the Oilmen's Association and the Lions Club. He also raised the most funds, on behalf of the Lions. Also skating in this group were Lioness Diane Kotowich, Judy Bilak of the FCSS Board, Rick Goheen of the Fire Department, Lorn Berg of the Elks Lodge, and Diane Huffman and Sandy Veenstra of the Oilettes.

Don Cameron of Amoco won the Oil Company Challenge trophies for both Most Laps and Most Money Raised, defeating Preston Kostura of Westminster.

Vern Blanchard was the lone participant in the Adult category, collecting trophies for most money raised and the oldest skater.

The Skating Club extends sincere thanks to the sponsors, participants, lap counters, and anyone else whose involvement helped make the event a success.

I salute the many hard-working volunteers, organizations, and businesses who play such an important part in maintaining community strength. I pledge to continue my support of programs and services which would improve the quality of life for the citizens of Elk Point.

I very much enjoyed visiting with all of you that I could catch at home during my campaign and wish to thank you for taking the time out to meet me and discuss various concerns. It is this type of communication that will enable Council to serve you most effectively.

I ask for your support in the upcoming by-election so that I may be your representative to Town Council.
